DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

618 Bourbon Street is a two and a half story four bay wide frame dwelling on a low granite ashlar foundation. Built in c. 1890's in a moderate Queen Anne style, the house faces north on Bourbon St., at the corner of ~~Freedom~~ Centennial Alley, a industrial lot is west of it. The structure, having three advanced bays on the front is covered with clapboard and has patterned shingles on the front and rear gables. A one and a half story addition is on the rear of the main section. The house is divided into apartments.

A three bay above grade Eastlake porch shelters the first three bays. The porch has a bracketed shed roof with an openwork spindle frieze supported by bracketed turned posts on a spindle work railing. Decorative brackets also mark the center of each bay, and the space between the cornice and shed roof of the porch is filled by a triangular panel with a radiating sun design. On the east elevation of the rear wing is a partially enclosed porch with a shed roof and a railing that is perforated by designs.

Windows are spaced evenly on the facade with the exception of one small multilight stained glass window between the third and fourth bay on the first floor. Throughout most of the house they contain 1/1 light double hung sash-with the upper sash bordered by small panes of stained glass, louvered shutters are present on the front and rear. The attic gables and the wing have one and two part rectangular multi-light sash.

The main entrance is in the third bay on the front elevation. It contains double doors with vertical panes of glass in the upper sash and molded panels in the lower. Topping the door is a scalloped band of molding with a jeweled stain glass transom above it. Other entrances are found on the wing.

A slate cross gable roof covers the 1st three bays while the fourth bay is under a low pitched asphalt gable roof with the ridge parallel to the street. The front and rear gables have shingled gables-bracketed at each end, that are completely outlined by a band of deep molding. A brick chimney with a bulging corbeled cap is in the center of the main section. The rear wing has a slate gable roof.

A small picket gate between two post gives access to the house and the large yard to the west and rear. A large board and batten barn and carriage house is located at the rear of the house facing east on Centennial Alley. It has sliding paneled doors and is painted green.

BUILDER/ARCHITECT

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

One of several small distinguished Queen Anne style houses in Havre de Grace, 618 Bourbon Street is believed to have been built to house a superintendant of the Havre de Grace Shoe Factory c. 1890. The building which was originally built as a shoe factory by the City of Havre de Grace for John Faust and Sons, stands a block away from this house. Directly behind the house is 618 Fountain St. (HA-1146), which is also thought to have been built for a management level employee of the same factory, and on S. Stokes St.-212 (HA-1147) is known to have been constructed for the same purpose. The original brick double housing for (Ha-1148-1149), workers is on the 700 block Fountain across from the factory building.

The location of the Wardell house, next to an industrial yard, makes its continued existence precarious. A large two story board and batten barn and carriage house adds to the overall interest and quality of the property.
